

Abstract

Each end of a resilient band is attachable and detachable to each end of two needles. In use the first needle is placed in hair, the needle and band are sewn through the hair; the second needle is placed into the hair to secure; and the fastener is removable and reusable by detaching the needles from the band.